ANNA ELEANOR ROOSEVELT (1884-1962)

Anna Eleanor Roosevelt was born on October 11, 1884 in New York City. Roosevelt, an awkward, serious child, was educated by private tutors until age 15, when she was sent to Allenswood Academy, a school for girls in England.

On March 17, 1905, Eleanor married, her cousin, Franklin Roosevelt and had six children. She volunteered with the American Red Cross and in Navy hospitals during World War I.

In 1928, Franklin Roosevelt was elected the president of United States. As the first lady, Eleanor began to transform the conventional role of first lady from social hostess to that of a more visible, active participant in her husband's administration.

Student Corner

DID YOU KNOW?

Former students posted the following messages in Yelp about their experiences with instructors from East LA Skills Center:

- ◆ “Medical Assistant Instructor, Mr. Gonzales, is nothing but the best in fine coaching and hands on guidance, guiding each and every one of his students toward success in life and focus on expanding knowledge of the medical field. His class is very intuitive and gives you an amazing externship experience to get your feet wet in the ever growing Medical Field. Not only is the price for this class well worth it, Mr. Gonzales orchestrates each and every one of his lectures and feeds you more than your average medical assistant instructor. He ventures off into his PA knowledge and experiences, more than preparing you for your externship and future job/career path. The school also does a great job to keep you on track and security in campus makes you feel more than comfortable. Make the investment to expand your knowledge. This class will open many doors for you and with Mr. Gonzales’ kind help and guidance, there’s no limit the amount you can gain from this course. I’m very happy I struggled managing this course alongside a full time job, because it was all worth it.”
- ◆ “Excellent photovoltaic program. Mr. Calderon and Mr. Ruiz are the best instructors there are in all Socal. So far the only school that does hands on and gives you the best training for the NABCEP certification.”
- ◆ “It’s a good school to get certificates or better experience on what you want to get your experience on. I’m taking the buildings and grounds class here. I paid 60 bucks for it, why not experience is worth it.”

Renowned Los Angeles-based digital artist Jaraad Virani (center) came to the East Los Angeles Skills Center’s Graphic Design class as a guest speaker on Wednesday, March 22nd. Mr. Virani is the head designer behind numerous movies posters, Blu-ray box art and other promotional materials for such mega franchises as Star Wars, Wolverine and Terminator. The students were really impressed and motivated by his movie posters and wanted to know as to how he got established in the industry. Jaraad encouraged the students to reach out to him for advice in the future.
